

Webinar | You Are Invited

The New General Water Law and Reform of the National Water Law: Status, Impact and Legislative Changes in Mexico

Greenberg Traurig Mexico's Environmental Practice invites you to participate in its upcoming webinar, where one of the most relevant environmental issues in Mexico will be analyzed: the reform of the National Water Law and the new General Water Law. These initiatives will significantly impact the way new investments are evaluated in Mexico. These reforms aim to comply with constitutional mandates and strengthen the recognition of water as a human right.

During the webinar, attorneys from our practice will provide a comprehensive analysis of how these reforms will transform the sourcing, management, and use of water in Mexico, as well as their effects on all sectors, especially those for which water is a critical input. The discussion will also address the implications for medium- and long-term investment planning.
