Q&A WITH DANIELLA GENET SILBERSTEIN

Are you active in any programmes or initiatives within your organisation?
To what extent have you found this work rewarding and fulfilling?

◆ As co-chair of Greenberg Traurig's Miami Women's Initiative for the last four years, I focus on creating avenues for young lawyers to find mentors, access resources and talk openly about the unique challenges they face, especially in areas like business development. Throughout my career, I have been fortunate to have strong women role models, including my mother, who maintained an active commercial real estate legal practice while raising five children. Her example instilled in me a deep commitment to supporting and empowering the next generation of lawyers. I believe that each generation can make it a little easier for the next. I try to use my experience to help younger lawyers find proven paths rather than reinventing the wheel. My hope is that when I look back, I can say I helped create opportunities and supported others so they can do the same for those who follow.

Could you describe the ways in which your firm has supported your career development?

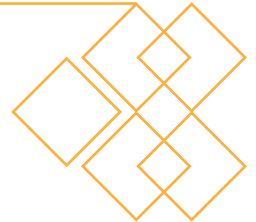

◆ My experience at Greenberg Traurig has been defined by extraordinary support from the very beginning. I have always felt empowered to shape my own path while also having the support of a collaborative team. The firm stands apart because of its culture of meritocracy and genuine commitment to individual growth. This is evidenced by my elevation to co-chair of the global corporate practice less than five years after joining the firm. When I joined the firm, we were at the height of the coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic. Although we were all working remotely, I immediately felt welcomed and connected. This bond extended from the Miami office to many attorneys across different offices, geographies and practice groups, which allowed me to build my practice quickly. Even within the firm's nearly 3000 attorneys, I have always felt heard and seen. Every voice is valued here, and this support is both top-down and peer-driven.

What strengths and characteristics do you, your team and your firm strive to demonstrate to clients?

◆ As a team, we always aim to offer the highest level of service and to act as trusted advisers to our clients. We ride the ups and downs with them and focus on building long-term relationships, not just handling one-off matters. I feel personally invested in my clients' success. I genuinely care about their businesses and objectives, which is reflected in the trust our clients place in us. At Greenberg Traurig, there is an entrepreneurial spirit and flexibility. It is not a 'one size fits all' approach to client service, fees or billing. The firm empowers each lawyer to 'own' their practice, giving us the autonomy to tailor our work to each client's needs. We want our clients to see us not only as legal counsel, but as an extension of their enterprise, always keeping their best interests at the centre of everything we do. ■

"I BELIEVE THAT EACH GENERATION CAN MAKE IT A LITTLE EASIER FOR THE NEXT. I TRY TO USE MY EXPERIENCE TO HELP YOUNGER LAWYERS FIND PROVEN PATHS RATHER THAN REINVENTING THE WHEEL."
